

Final Project

In addition to the simulation itself, a presentation about your simulation is required. The presentation should include a description of your simulation including information on how it works, the assumptions that you made, what variables can be changed, and some background information. The other part of the should include some brief analysis of your simulation including how someone would use it and possible results/scenarios.
