Medieval Economic History in Comparative Perspective

Spring 2007
21H416 / 14.70J

Prof. McCants
MW/F 9:30-11:00

This course will survey the conditions of material life and the changing social and economic relations in medieval Europe with reference to the comparative context of contemporary Islamic, Chinese, and central Asian experiences. Subject covers the emergence and decline of feudal institutions, the transformation of peasant agriculture, living standards and the course of epidemic disease, and the ebb and flow of long-distance trade across the Eurasian system. Particular emphasis will be placed on the study of those factors, both institutional and technological, which have contributed to the emergence of capitalist organization and economic growth in Western Europe in contrast to the trajectories followed by the other major medieval economies.

This course has a scheduled three hour final exam. In addition, each student will be expected to write a number of very short (1 or 2 pages each) discussion papers, and two substantive essays (5 or 6 pages each) over the course of the term. The discussion papers will be due on February 14/16, March 7/9, April 4/6, and April 18/20. The longer essays will be due on March 19 and April 30. The discussion papers should pertain to the reading assigned for the week they are due, while the topics for the two longer papers will be assigned in class.

No internet sources should be consulted for your papers, other than those which are either primary source collections, or are academically refereed sites. If you are unsure about a site, please consult me prior to using it. If used, all internet sources must be properly footnoted and cited in your bibliography at the end of your paper just as for any other type of source. Plagiarism from any source will not be tolerated. Plagiarism earns an automatic F (0%) for the assignment. Moreover, all cases of plagiarism will be reported to the COD for their consideration of the appropriate disciplinary action to take with the student involved. If you are unsure what plagiarism is please see the MIT Online Writing Communication Center. If you are still uncertain, please see me.

Grading: 20% for shorter discussion papers combined
 20% for each of the two substantive papers – total of 40%
 20% for final exam
 20% for class participation -- demonstrating mastery of the assigned readings.

Late Paper and Absence Policy:

Late papers will be accepted without penalty in the case of a medical emergency or some other type of emergency which has been brought to our attention in advance. Otherwise, late papers will be graded down 5% points for each day they are late. Students are expected to attend every class, and to participate actively in section meetings. If you know in advance that you must travel during the week for professional reasons, please see us as soon as possible so that we can make appropriate arrangements.

Lecture Schedule and Reading Assignments

- Feb 7 Assorted administrative trivia.
 In class writing exercise – 1 page.
- Feb 12 Some big questions in economic history, and how to think about them.
Reading: Robert Solow, “Economics: Is Something Missing?”; and John Hatcher and Mark Bailey, Modelling the Middle Ages: the History and Theory of England’s Economic Development, pp. 1-10. Begin reading Adriaan Verhulst, The Carolingian Economy. This needs to be completed before March 5th and will provide background material for discussion for the first month of the course.
- Feb 14/16 Technology in economic history.
Assignment: 1-2 page short discussion paper on a ‘technology’ which you employ on a regular basis, but about the history or characteristics of which you rarely pause to consider. Your discussion should indicate the ways in which this particular technology intersects with the larger themes of economic history. Be creative and feel free to have some fun with this assignment. It has no right answer, but nevertheless your discussion should reveal a high level of thoughtfulness.
- Feb 20-21/23 Late Roman Antiquity and Barbarian Europe
Reading: Robert Lopez, The Commercial Revolution of the Middle Ages, pp. 1-55.
- Feb 26-28 The structure of medieval life: manorialism and feudalism.
