

For the final exam, you should know what you knew for quiz #1 and quiz #2, along with:

- historical linguistics: Grimm's Law, the Great Vowel Shift, sound correspondences
- language and brain (Pranav and Aly's talk): names and symptoms of Wernicke's and Broca's aphasia
- Ebonics: know some differences between it and Standard English
- endangered languages; be able to demonstrate that you were there, or at least read the slides.

Practice problem sets will be appearing here over the next few days.

- practice with drawing syntax trees
- a historical problem set: Lencan (and a solution)
- another historical problem set: Proto-Polynesian (and a solution)

And Norvin Richards will be having extra office hours: 2-5 on Monday and Tuesday. You can also e-mail him to make an appointment at other times.
